The following patent publications are believed to represent the current state of the art: U.S. Pat. Nos. 6,522,133, 6,826,650 and 6,945,282 all to Fayad; U.S. Pat. Nos. 6,813,834, 6,832,258 and 6,977,276 all to Prowell et al; U.S. Pat. No. 6,611,701 to Liao et al.; U.S. Pat. No. 6,927,813 to McIntyre et al.; and U.S. Pat. Nos. 6,993,468, 6,960,587, 7,000,207, 7,008,818 and 7,013,304 all to Warren. U.S. Pat. Nos. 6,504,851 and 6,504,852 to Harris describe a system for predicting how the aforementioned features of the device will perform using a neural network algorithm. It will be appreciated that while the prior art described in the above-referenced publications and patents represent, in one form or another, significant improvements over the earlier techniques, room for further improvement remains. Q: Why is Python acting weird when returning numbers from a function? I've just started out with learning Python and I noticed something strange. I've created the following code and it keeps returning 2 as the result instead of the calculated result: Code: `def complex_fib(n): a = n-2 b = n-1 x = a y = b while x`
